The disastrous fire Friday morning is another of the impressive reminders that the city should purchase and keep in repair effective fire extinguishing apparatus. If the old hose had not bursted the other night the fire would have been extinguished in short order.

Governor Gage, of California, has been beaten for renomination on the Republican ticket by Dr. Geo. C. Ordway. The cause of his defeat is attributed to the influence of the three leading Republican papers in California—the Call and Chronicle in San Francisco and one at Los Angeles.

Sound American government principals, as enunciated by President Roosevelt in his speech at Hartford, Conn., August 22d: "Fair and square dealing with all men, so that men shall have their rights under the law, that all shall be given an even chance in the struggle for life, as we can best give it." As good as anything Lincoln ever said.

Secretary of State Dunbar has rejected the claim of Mrs. Wagoner for the reward for finding Merrill's body. His reason is as follows: The claim is hereby disallowed for the reason that from the facts and evidence offered it does not appear that the claimant rendered the service claimed, or by her act in finding and returning the body of Merrill complied with the provisions of the law or the offer of reward, and it therefore not entitled to the amount claimed or any part thereof. Mrs. Wagoner should now go into the courts and test her claim to what is certainly due her.

If you lost your little tooter and then lay aside your horn, there's not a soul in ten short days will know that you were born. The man who gathers pumpkins is the man who plows all day, and the man who keeps it bumping is the one who makes it pay. The man who advertises with short, a sudden jerk, is the man who blames the editor because it didn't work. The man who gets the business takes a long and steady pull and keeps the local paper from year to year quite full. He plans his advertising in a careful, thoughtful way, and keeps forever at it until he makes it pay. He has faith in all the future, and can withstand a sudden shock, and like the man of scripture, has his business on a rock.—Western Advertiser.

The right for labor to organize cannot be gainsaid, but there is one principle which they try to enforce that is certainly not legitimate. The privilege of choosing his laborers should be with the employer and the right to labor or not to labor certainly belongs to the individual laborer. The same fault that is found with the corporations and trusts must also be charged against this principle of labor organizations. Their effort to regulate the length of a working day and the wages to be received by workmen of different degrees of proficiency are certainly commendable; but to demand that a man who can do only half or such a matter as much work as faster or better workman, should receive the same wages, is wrong again. The organization of labor as well as capital needs regulation.

The Portland Evening Telegram thinks that "tin horns" should be made "hike," and in course of its remarks says: The police authorities of Kansas City have recently issued a stringent order to the effect that gentle-appearing loafers or idlers must give a satisfactory explanation of their lack of occupation or leave the city. This is a proper piece of police work in every city, and would be in order, and will be more necessary from year to year. Of course it is none of the public's business if a man is idle, providing he can afford to be so, and is a decent, reputable citizen, whether a regular resident of the city or a visitor. But the idlers who are on the watch to prey upon honest people, the loafers who cannot afford to be idle if honest, but who had rather be dishonest than industrious, the parasites who live off the earnings of others—in whatever way—the loafers and bums, whether in rags or dressed in the height of fashion and posing in front of cigar stands and saloons—ought to be made to "move on."
